Editor's Column

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall last Saturday told the League of Ohio Sportsmen, "We are now determining what kind of a future world 51 young Americans now in school will enjoy. We must not only protect the freedoms for this coming generation of leaders, we must leave them an unsullied America, and with the help of conservation programs we can reach this goal. What we save now—in the 1960s—will be all that can be saved."

Monday morning in Salinas, at 11:00 o'clock, residents of this area will have an opportunity to save Los Padres National Forest unsullied for future generations by supporting a proposed Monterey County ordinance to prohibit motor scooters from using the forest.

At that time the Monterey County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing on a proposed county ordinance, requested by the U. S. Forest Service as a means to support USFS regulations closing the Monterey Division of Los Padres National Forest to motor vehicles of all types except on established roads and four trails which permit access from the Salinas Valley to the coast.

The ordinance will aid the U. S. Forest Service by permitting violators of these regulations to be prosecuted in local courts instead of the Federal Court in San Francisco. A similar ordinance now helps protect Los Padres Forest from fire by supporting USFS Closed Area Permit regulations each fire season.

Monday's hearing is a continuance of a hearing on December 11. At that time a representative of the American Motor Scooter Association spoke against the ordinance. Communications from Southern California motor scooter groups also protested the ordinance.

Monterey County's proposed ordinance thus became a test case be-

County Planners Get Staff Report On Coast Master Plan

County planning commissioners, yesterday afternoon, accepted for study recommendations, prepared by the county planning staff, to preserve the coastline south of Carmel to the San Luis Obispo County line. The audience of 100 persons attending the public hearing on a coast master plan voiced no objections to the proposals presented in the form of a report.

The planning staff studied the Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, James Campbell and Coast Citizens Committee master plans submitted to the commission for review and pointed out in their report that many similarities existed in the three plans.

The areas of agreement were: there is need for a master plan; the natural and scenic beauty of the coast should be preserved; Highway One should be a scenic highway; there is need for density, architectural and site control along the coast road; some provision

Dr. Leo Stanley, Retired San Quentin Physician, Rockets Around California

By Raylyn Penney

"The Old Croaker" hit town the other day.

In a way, when Dr. Leo Stanley, who was chief surgeon at San Quentin Prison for 38 years, visits Carmel and the Peninsula, it's as if he's coming home.

He used to be a "peanut butcher" on the Del Monte Express during his student days, plying between here and San Francisco selling fruit, nuts, newspapers and candy to weekend passengers. It was one of the ways he helped put himself through Stanford University Medical School.

And from the look of his collection of facts and reminiscences about how California was yesterday, it seems as if he must have examined every foot of territory in Monterey County at one time or another.

Now a resident of Fairfax, California, he still visits Carmel at frequent intervals, but he doesn't stay long. Friends well know he doesn't stay long anywhere. Since his retirement from San Quentin in 1951 he's been rocketing around the state, and for that matter, the world, doing all the things he had no time for during his years of "confinement" at the prison. For his was a confining job, despite the fact he nearly always took long vacations when he sailed as ship's doctor on boats going to far places.

During his recent day in Carmel and before visits to several sets of friends, Dr. Stanley took time out to be interviewed, and though he spoke of many things, and is interested in many things, it's his own life which remains the most fas-

Carmel School District board members will meet in March with representatives of two down-coast elementary school districts, Captain Cooper and Palo Colorado, to discuss possible future annexation of the two districts to the Carmel Unified district.

Rainfall in Carmel now exceeds that of last year by over two inches. Water is overflowing spillways at San Clemente and Los Padres dams, coursing down the Valley to pour in a torrent into the ocean at the mouth of Carmel River. Uprooted trees and other debris litter Reamers Beach and the bay is murky with river water.

Saturday morning the lower part of the Mission Tract was under water until bulldozers opened the the river bar. Some homes bordering the lagoon were flooded causing thousands of dollars' damage. The lower playfield at River

Sunset School To Be Closed Trustees Decide

Carmel's first school, Sunset, may close its doors next fall after 56 years of operation.

Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District voted last night to proceed with a plan presented by school administrators which calls for closing the Sunset plant except for administrative offices and occasional use of the auditorium.

FEBRUARY, 1915

The Carmel Pine Cone is now in its forty-eighth year of publication. It was established in February, 1915, and since then has fought continuously to preserve the values which make Carmel an outstanding community noted for its beauty, quiet residential character, culture, fine school system, good government and conservative business development.

The school has housed sixth, seventh and eighth grade classes this academic year. The plan calls for retention of one sixth grade at Woods School next fall (which has this year had only grades kindergarten through five), two sixth grades at River (which has had three this year), and one sixth grade at Carmel Junior High School (which had been previously planned for grades seven through nine only, but which will have adequate room for a sixth grade group).

The plan also provides more space at River, freeing a classroom for use as the school's new library.

Asked by trustee Dr. Richard Snyder if introduction of sixth graders into the new school, which has a carefully planned curriculum geared for smoother transition from junior high to high school levels, wouldn't have an adverse effect, Dr. Walter Klas, principal of the new school said:

"Not at all. The sixth grade there would be self-contained, with one teacher most of the time and in one room most of the time." Sixth graders, he said, wouldn't be expected to participate in the rather complex class schedules of the junior high scholars, but would be able to use junior high athletic and music facilities without friction."

Pointed out to board members in the report, presented by Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield, was the substantial saving in administration and staff salaries if Sunset remained closed to classes. The heating plant would continue to run on a cut-back basis to serve offices, which would occupy six classrooms south of the auditorium, three upstairs and

Holdup Last Night At Highlands Inn By Two Armed Men

Two unidentified robbers took around $2,000 at gunpoint from a night attendant at the Highlands Inn early today, then left the victim bound and gagged beside the open safe and made their escape.

C. H. Chabot, 60, told the Monterey County Sheriff's office he was sitting at a desk in the cocktail lounge at 1:20 o'clock this morning, after closing time, counting bar receipts and preparing to make out a bank deposit slip, when two male negroes with nylon stockings pulled over their heads ran into the lounge from a rear door.

One of the men pointed a nickel-plated pistol at Chabot and asked him to open the safe. The pair took $1,786.37 in cash and $39.89 in checks, bound Chabot with a rope, his hands behind his back, and gagged him with a handkerchief. Chabot worked free of his bonds about 15 minutes after the pair had left, and phoned the sheriff's office.

Chabot said he was kicked several times in the back and hips by the pair while he was being tied up. He said the robbers were both of medium height, about 5 feet 7 inches or 8, and one wore a tan trench coat.

Five City Council Candidates, Norberg Seeks Second Term

Five candidates have filed nomination papers for election to the city council on April 10. There are two vacancies caused by the expiring terms of Councilmen John Chitwood and Gunnar Norberg.

Yesterday afternoon Councilman Gunnar Norberg filed nomination papers for re-election to the council for a second four-year term. His papers were again circulated by Captain Henry M. Gleason. Signers, in addition to Captain Gleason, were Robert M. Hayler, Nola B. Hayler, Lloyd B. Armstrong, Nell Armstrong, Anna Mc-

Senator Farr Calls Special Meeting On Flood Control

State Senator Fred Farr has invited federal, state and county agencies to send representatives to a special flood control meeting on February 23 at 11:00 o'clock in Carmel City Hall. Purpose of the meeting will be to prevent recurrence of floods such as last Saturday's in the Mission Tract.

Expected to attend are representatives from the State Division of Beaches and Parks, State Division of Forestry, Monterey County Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson and county road department and engineering officials. The U. S. Engineers and U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, also the California Water and Telephone Company have been invited to send representatives.

Plans for forecasting weather, sudden rises in the river, acquisition of bulldozers and allocating responsibility for opening the bar at the mouth of Carmel River will be discussed.

PADRE CAGERS HOST KING CITY FRIDAY NIGHT

Still having a slender mathematical chance to finish in a tie for the league championship, Coach Dick Lawitzke's varsity basketball squad entertains the hot-and-cold King City quintet tomorrow night at the Carmel High School pavilion. The Padres and Mustangs are coming right back against each other after clashing last Friday night at the King City gym. A quirk in the scheduling department has caused a quick rematch between the fifth-place Mustangs and the third-place Padres. The Padres clipped King City, 57 to 51, last week and figure to hand out the same treatment tomorrow.

Triple-header action is on tap for the King City invasion with Clyde Klaumann's junior-varsity getting things underway at 5:30; the lightweights taking the spotlight at 7:00 o'clock; and the big fellows having at it in the 8:30 feature game.

While Carmel and King City are settling the issue at Carmel, the league-leading Gilroyans will be at home to second-place San Lorenzo Valley High. The potent Gilroy gang clobbered the Cougars, 61 to 40, last Friday night, and the mountain boys don't figure to get any closer the second time around. Coach Bob Hagen's smartly coached aggregation appears to have too much class for the B-division clubs and could probably hold its own in the A-division. Other B-division games finds Gonzales at Pacific Grove and Live Oak taking on Hollister.

CARMEL HIGH WINS TRIPLE HEADER AT KING CITY

Three satisfying victories were notched by the Carmel High basketball squads last Friday night at King City where the Red and Gray cagers downed the Mustang jayvees, 46 to 25; outscored the lightweights, 51 to 37; and copped the big one, 57 to 51.

By winning the lightweight and varsity games, the Carmel lads still hold a chance to garner a piece of the CCAL B-division championship. The Padre Babes are one game off the pace at the present time and have easy sailing the rest of the way. Carmel's varsity is trailing Gilroy three games, but has a fine chance to move into second place as Gilroy still has games remaining with San Lorenzo Valley and Live Oak.

Big man in the Carmel varsity attack at King City was diminutive Ted Leidig who poured in 19 points with a fine shooting exhibition. Carmel's talented rebound twins, Jim Kelley and Pete Morse, also turned scorers with Kelley meshing 18 markers and Morse hitting for an even dozen. Rookies Rick Baldwin and Page van Loben Sels were outstanding as playmakers and both turned in steady defensive jobs.

Coach Dick Lawitzke's charges got off to a slow start against the Mustangs, settling for a 7-7 deadlock at the end of the first quarter when a 12% shooting average failed to produce many baskets. However, in the second period, the Padres found the range for 21 points and left for the rest period with a 28-21 lead. Operating off a good fast break attack, Carmel increased the margin to 45-36 at the end of the third quarter, and eased off to post the 57-51 victory.

Putting on their best first-quarter surge, Harold Lippstreu's Carmel lightweights broke to a 16-3 lead and didn't look back for the rest of the game. With Al Arndt (16), Jack DeWitt (11), and Jose Fernandez (9) hitting with better than 45% of their attempts, the Padre lights had game control all the way and proved too tough for the hard-trying Ponies. The Little Padres were in front 27-17 at the half, increased the margin to 37-26 at the end of the third quarter, and outscored the hosts, 18 to 5, in the final period.

Continuing to show outstanding improvement in every outing, Coach Clyde Klaumann's junior-varsity gang put on a smooth performance while clipping the Mustang reserves. Sparked by Stan Michelson's fine 20-point scoring effort, the Padre jayvees broke to an early lead and had a 28-20 bulge at the end of the first half. Carmel was in front, 28 to 20, at the end of the third period and turned into a hot-shooting crew in the final heat, burning the net for 18 points while holding the opposition to five markers. Mike Brasher and Dave Harris each chipped in with six points to help the Padre cause while the fine floor games of Dave Maher and Al Nishimura smoothed the way for the Padre scoring plays.

THROUGH THE HOOP

The draw for the Carmel High School basketball tournament slated for March 1-3 has been made with the Padres slated for some tough competition in the opening round. Matched against the rugged Ceres aggregation from the San Joaquin Valley League, the Padres will be stacked against two 6-6 rebounders capable of giving the Morse-Kelley duo a severe test on the boards. Barring the mismatch against Monterey High's jumping-jacks', Morse and Kelly have been tops in snaring the caroms off the boards and Carmel's fine hoop record is largely attributable to the sterling rebounding of this muscular pair. The 1962 tournament opens with San Lorenzo Valley High, a newcomer to the tournament, tackling Gonzales High; Pacific Grove, a charter member which has played in every tournament, tackles Mountain View's St. Francis High in the second tilt. Junipero Memorial of Monterey, champions of the Catholic Athletic League, takes on a weak Gustine High aggregation in the third game, and the Ceres-Carmel joust winds up the first night's activity. Missing from this year's action will be Bob Hagen's fine Gilroy gang which has always been a stellar part of the Carmel hoop festival. Petty administrative differences caused Gilroy to be uninvited this year and the ones suffering from the action are the students of Gilroy and Carmel high school . . . As predicted in an earlier edition of the Pine Cone, the 7th grade at the Carmel Mission School has turned out the most exciting basketball team in the Carmel area. Inspired by little Ron Parsons, the Mission seventh-graders went undefeated in the Peninsula Recreation League, whipping both Carmel public school teams and easily handling the seventh-grade teams from Pacific Grove. Parsons provided the big scoring punch for the Mission gang and forced the opponents to set their defenses for him in every game played by the Mission. While Parsons scored most of the points for the champions, the steady play of Mark Snopkowski, Pat Waters, Jim Gilman, Joe Pistulka, Mike Dominici, Tom Bristol, Mike Hutchinson, Greg Canavare, Jack Patenaude, Gerhardt Bensberg, and Gary Boyle made the Mission gang the best balanced unit in the league . . .

Coach Larry Cummins has his Monterey Peninsula College Lobos hungry for action and hot on the trail of the leaders in the Coast Junior College Conference basketball chase. The likable mentor of the Lobos has patientally awaited the eligibility of Charley White to make his club a challenger for the league crown and the willowy high-jumper hasn't disappointed the MPC strategist. In the first three games since his eligibility has been recognized, White has propelled his teammates to wins and has the Lobos on the trail of the junior college championship. White provided the impetus to upset the high flying San Jose City College in his debut and subsequently sparked MPC to wins over Cabrillo and San Benito JC. Now snuggly ensconced in fourth place in league standings, the Lobos are a definite threat to the leaders and the favored teams in the lea-

Phelan Literature Competition Offers Three $1,000 Awards

March 15 is the closing date for the 1962 Phelan Awards Competition in Literature, in which three awards of $1,000 will be given to three writers, one in each of the following fields: the short story, all forms of poetry, and the historical narrative.

The jury which will determine the winners is made up of Clay Putnam of San Francisco State College, Frederick Bracher of Pomona College, and Thomas Parkinson of the University of California at Berkeley.

These awards, which have been given for 27 years, are made available annually (in literature and art in alternating years) under the terms of a bequest of the late James D. Phelan. Applicants, from 20 to 40 years old, must have been born in California. They must make application on a special form which can be obtained, along with additional information, from the Phelan Awards, Room 814 Grant Building, 1095 Market Street, San Francisco 3, California.

Lipkin Plays Here Tomorrow Night For Music Society

The Carmel Music Society will present Seymour Lipkin, pianist, tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

His artistry has been acclaimed in Europe and the United States. Leonard Bernstein requested that Lipkin accompany, as soloist, the New York Philharmonic when this orchestra made a world tour in 1959.

Seymour Lipkin, now 34, was a child prodigy. At the age of four years he gave his first public concert in his native city, Detroit. When he was 11 years old he attracted the attention of Rudolf Serkin and became Serkin's student at the Curtis Institute of Music for six years, and remained at Curtis for another three years. At the age of 21 he won the Rachmaninoff Award after an appearance with the NBC Symphony under Fritz Reiner.

In Carmel tomorrow night Lipkin will play a program which will include music of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Stravinsky, Bartok, and Prokofief.

Daniel Sorey

From Southern California has come word of the death on Saturday of Judge Daniel S. Sorey, father of Glen Sorey of Carmel.

Judge Sorey, who would have been 88 next April 1, made his home in El Monte, near Los Angeles. Retired for the past several years, he had been a city judge in El Monte for some 20 years.

In addition to his son, Judge Sorey leaves his wife, Lema, of El Monte, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson of Clarkston, Washington.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon with cremation rites to follow at El Monte Mortuary.

John B. Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association for 34 years, will be honored guest at a special noon luncheon of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles on Tuesday, February 20.

Co-sponsored by the Association, prominent men from the Fourth Estate and close friends of Mr. Long will sit at the head table to honor him. His retirement today, as head of the Association, marks an end to a career filled with many years of leadership. Long has seen newspapers develop and grow to serve the ever-increasing population of hundreds of communities in the West.

Many publishers, or their representatives, of more than 580 newspapers, and advertising men from all fields, plan to attend the outstanding event.

Marilyn Horne Sings At MPC February 23, No Charge To Public

Soprano Marilyn Horne will appear in concert on February 23, in the new music building on the Monterey Peninsula College campus.

Her concert, first to be held in the building's spacious concert hall, will start at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. The public is invited by the MPC music department to attend without charge.

Miss Horne's five-part program will include four selections from Handel, including the aria Alleluja from Esther; five songs by Wolf; Una Voce Poco Fa from Rossini's Barber of Seville; four numbers by Hindemith, and four Spanish carols by Nin.

The singer's early musical education was given her by her father, who was a singer himself. Entering the University of Southern California as a voice scholarship student in 1951, Miss Horne studied with William Vannard, was coached by Gwendolyn Williams Koldofsky (who will accompany her during her MPC recital) and was a member of the USC A Capella Choir and Madrigal Singers. During her student years she was also a member of Lotte Lehmann's Master Class.

From 1956 to 1959, Miss Horne appeared in outstanding opera houses, festivals and concert halls in Europe; touring Alaska on her return to this country. In October, 1960, she sang the role of Marie in Berg's Wozzeck with the San Francisco Opera. Her New York debut followed in February, 1961, when she sang a major role in a concert version of Bellini's little-known opera, Beatrice di Tenda, with the American Opera Society.

Carmel Valley Man Rescues Three Boys Swept Down River

Three unidentified Carmel Valley boys may owe their lives to the rescue work of P. L. Wilmot of Panetta Road, who pulled the trio, one at a time, from the swollen Carmel River Saturday afternoon near his home.

Wilmot had driven up to his house when he heard dogs barking. Going to investigate along the bank of the river, which except in flood seasons doesn't come anywhere near the Wilmot house, he saw the three boys clinging to reeds and debris.

Their calls for help couldn't be heard over the roar of the water. Wilmot waded into the stream, which came up to his shoulders, and carried the boys to safety. At one point, according to Mrs. Wilmot, who discovered what had happened and was watching from the yard, Mr. Wilmot lost his footing and went under, but recovered again and completed the job.

None of the rescued boys gave their names to the Wilmots, although one said he was a second grader and his friends were "a little older" than he. They had entered the water, they said, at Los Laureles and had been swept downstream.

Letters . . .

Editor's note: Following is the letter which the Carmel Citizens Committee sent to the Monterey Board of Supervisors to be read at Tuesday's hearing on control of motorized vehicles in Los Padres National Forest by means of a county ordinance.

February 8, 1962

The Board of Supervisors
Monterey County
County Courthouse
Salinas, California

Gentlemen:

In conformity with the vote of the membership of the Carmel Citizens Committee at its annual meeting, January 22, 1962, the following resolution is presented to you for consideration and such action as will effect its purpose.

"Whereas, We feel the use of motorized vehicles on the trails of our forests is highly undesirable, and detrimental to trees, vegetation and animal life, as well as being a fire hazard, and

Whereas, Such use not only presents inconvenience and even danger to the walkers and animals for whom the trails are constructed, but will, in addition, result in erosion and damage to the trails so used, now therefore

Be it Resolved: That we, the Carmel Citizens Committee feel that in our forests motor vehicles should be confined to roads, leaving the trails for the exclusive use of hikers and forest supervision and their saddle and pack animals. We therefore advocate a strong county ordinance that will serve these ends."

Respectfully,
Carmel Citizens Committee
C. W. Fisher, President.

CARMEL BUSINESS ASSN.
P. O. Box 4444
Carmel-by-the-Sea

February 13, 1962

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone:

This is a copy of a letter mailed today to members of the Carmel City Council.

The Carmel Business Association's proposal to double the Carmel Business license fee, and have the city match these extra funds for a period of five years, this total amount to be earmarked for off-street parking, is, we believe a sound proposal offered to the council after much study and deliberation by the Association.

We would like to explain our reasons for the measures we suggest.

Why double the business license fee?

Every person and corporation engaged in any form of business in Carmel, and those outside of Carmel, but serving Carmel, pay this fee. All would share the cost of this proposal. We have explored the many ways to spread this cost, but as the city itself planned the business license system as the most representative type of taxation it could devise for our business community, and as it is a working system that can be amended to meet our changing needs, we could see no reason to devise another method.

Why should the city match these funds for the benefit of the business district?

Apart from the obvious benefits of additional parking for both business and residents, Carmel is fortunate indeed to have an active business community producing enough sales tax revenue so we may point with pride to a declining property tax rate in the face of ever rising costs of city government.

How fortunate is our city to have such a fine source of income, but this revenue must be managed. Our yearly sales tax income of $150,000 represents approximately $2,500,000 invested at 6%. A good manager is aware that it is not always wise to take all the profits and not lay a little aside to keep the plant modern, or reinvest some part of the return to bring still greater profits.

We feel that the sales tax revenue has become a vital part of our city life and it is the responsibility of the council to see that this source of income is not endangered by lack of planning.

How much will this cost?

Our proposal will mean an expenditure of $86,000 per year for five years. $43,000 to come from increased business license fees, $43,000 from property taxes. $14,300 of the property taxes will come from the commercially zoned areas, so the business community will pay $57,300 of the $86,000.

Gentlemen, too much time has already been wasted in trying to find a way to get something for nothing. This plan will cost money, but it is not unreasonable. Our planning commission made the first move by creating the P3 zone. The Carmel Business Association has made the second, at your request, by offering this proposal. Its your move now.

Sincerely yours,
R. P. Spencer,
Carmel Business Association
Parking Committee.

County Planners Get Staff Report On Coast Master Plan

should be made for tourist accommodations.

The report recommended the following density controls: Malpaso Creek to Soberanes Point, two-and-one-half acre building sites on both sides of Highway One; Soberanes Point to Rocky Creek, two-and-one-half acre building sites on the ocean side of the highway, five acres on the land side; Rocky Creek to the county line, five acres on the ocean side, ten acres east of the highway.

In the established communities at Palo Colorado and Garrapata Canyon areas, Big Sur Valley, Sycamore Canyon and Coastlands, two and a half acres per building site.

Tourist accommodation areas of one living unit per acre should be allowed in Big Sur Valley, the report continued. A special treatment area along Highway One from Little Sur River to Big Sur River should be established. Density in this area to be determined through presentation of development plans and individual study by the commission of any development.

Clustering or grouping of living units in any special treatment area was recommended, also encouragement of single-family minimum building sites of one acre. Property owners in this region should be encouraged to keep their land in agricultural or open use with necessary zoning and tax benefits available. Existing commercial establishments and zones should be recognized for future development, and additional commercial zones be considered on the basis of merit and community need.

The report added that Highway One should be designated a scenic corridor and no realignment of the road or replacement of bridges with fills should be allowed, also that a 100-foot setback line be established for any development along the entire length of the coast road.

A meander line was suggested to define that area which is visible from the highway. Building would not be stopped in this area, but subjected to location and site selection review. Height control of building on the ocean side of the highway was recommended, too. Wherever feasible, utilities should be placed underground, the report concluded.

County planning commissioners will study these recommendations before their next coast master plan public hearing on April 10.

Commission Plans Skirl Of Bagpipes At Forest Theater

Wind and rain buffeted city hall yesterday afternoon but arts commissioners, oblivious to the storm, made first plans for a second series of free Sunday afternoon outdoor programs at the Forest Theater this summer. They also received two requests for a lease to the Theater-in-the-Ground and considered establishing a policy on the acquisition and exhibition of works of art in the memorial museum at city hall.

The summer series of 11 free community programs at the Forest Theater will be preceded on June 10 by a benefit performance at which Herb Miller and his 14-piece band will play. Tickets will be sold for this program and the proceeds will be used for improvements to the city-owned theatre.

The Sunday afternoon free programs will start on June 17 and continue each week until Labor Day except for one Bach Festival weekend.

Prior to the June 10 benefit, commissioners decided the Monterey County Symphony may have the Forest Theater for a music scholarship benefit concert on June 3, if the Symphony Association so desires.

Commissioner Glenn Kearns suggested that this summer's free programs should be presented by four to six groups, each responsible for more than one performance. He also stressed the need for two or three stage managers for the productions and early planning of crafts exhibits to be shown the same afternoons as the programs.

Commissioners enthusiastically endorsed his proposal that the Stuart Highlanders Bagpipe Band of San Francisco should be invited to play a return concert at the Forest Theater the last weekend in August.

The requests to lease the indoor Theater-in-the-Ground premises at the Forest Theater came from Cole Weston and Puppets of Carmel.

After listening to proposals from the prospective lessees, Chairman Marjorie Wurzmann appointed a committee consisting of Commissioners Kearns, Richard Lofton and Fred Rider, to meet with Weston and representatives of the puppet group at the Forest Theater Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock to examine the condition of the understage theater. The committee will then prepare a report to present to other commissioners at a special meeting to be called by the chairman when the report is ready.

Mayor Frank Putnam informed arts commissioners that Arch Garner, a Peninsula sculptor, has offered to give the city a bust of Robinson Jeffers for the memorial museum at city hall. Commissioners decided to ask Mr. Garner to show them the bust at their March 14 meeting.

They also received the offer of a painting of Carmel Mission painted by Ivan Wandesford before 1874. The offer was made by Alex J. Campbell of Watertown, Connecticut. He wishes the picture to be placed in the memorial museum but commissioners were doubtful that the premises would satisfy demands made by Campbell for its exhibition, one of which was that the building in which it is shown must be fireproof.

Commissioner Lofton presented proposals for a policy for the museum. They were: should only deceased artists' work be displayed; should oil paintings only be accepted, or should water colors, drawings, prints and sculpture also be acquired; should the museum be confined just to the city council chambers or expanded into other parts of the city hall; what should be the geographical limitations definition of "Carmel" artists, the city or the Peninsula; lastly, by what methods should the city seek works of art for the museum, by letters soliciting gifts or public appeals.

At the request of Chairman Wurzmann he will restate these questions in a written report for other commissioners to study before their March meeting.

April Bond Election To Buy MPC Campus Set By Trustees

Monterey Peninsula Junior College District trustees decided last Thursday evening to disregard the recommendation of the MPC Citizens Committee for a six-year 42-45 cent override tax to finance purchase of the MPC campus from Monterey Union High School District and construct buildings needed to meet an expected junior college enrollment of 2,500 students in 1966.

Instead they hope to raise money to purchase the campus only by means of a $2,240,000 bond issue. Voters of the Peninsula-wide junior college district, comprised of Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove school districts, will be asked to approve their action on April 10 in a bond election.

The bonds will mean an estimated 10-cent tax per $100 assessed valuation for 17 years

Forest Hill School Now Owned By Mosaicist Lagorio

Irene Lagorio, artist of national prominence in the field of decorative mosaics, has purchased the former Forest Hill School building near Mission Street and First Avenue, with plans to maintain a Carmel headquarters as well as her present studio in Oakland.

Miss Lagorio's purchase of the school building and two city lots at the Forest Hill site was confirmed this week by Barnet Segal of Carmel, former owner of the property.

The mosaicist, a frequent visitor on the Peninsula, is expected in Carmel the weekend of February 24, prior to holding a mosaic workshop under auspices of the local chapter of the American Federation of Arts, at the AFA studios at Lincoln Street and Ocean Avenue. The Lagorio workshop will open February 26.

Miss Lagorio is expected to occupy the Forest Hill site within the next six months.

Full Houses Applaud Flying Scud First Theatre's New Melodrama

By Tom Rogers

The Flying Scud, a 96-year-old wonder horse, raced across the finish line at Epsom Downs, First Theatre version, last Saturday night and proved to the capacity audience that melodrama is never passe when presented by the Troupers of The Gold Coast.

This extremely entertaining old play from the pen of Dion Boucicault was first presented in London during 1866 and the passing of nearly 100 years has not in the least dimmed its lustre.

A large cast, well versed in the dramatic style of the 19th century, gave an excellent performance as they unfolded a tale of intrigue involving the noblest of all horses, The Flying Scud, and his owner Tom Meridith, Lord of Nobbley Hall, portrayed with elan by Holt Wood, an automobile salesman by day and a thespian by night.

Karen Beswick, in her second role with the Troupers, appeared as his "heart's delight," Katey Rideout, and captured the sympathy of the audience as the thoroughly despicable Grindley Goodge (Thornton L. Harby), ably aided and abetted by his henchmen, Colonel Mulligan (Jim Pruitt), and the comical Mo Davis (Vincent Randazzo), plotted to discredit her in the eyes of the hero.

The Colonel's niece, Julia Latimer, an adventuress reformed by her love for Lord Cecil Woodbie (John D'Angelo), introduced to First Theatre audiences a young lady who is certain to become a favorite. In this role Janine Johnston was delightful.

John Boles, a lieutenant commander at the Naval Postgraduate School and a newcomer to the Troupers, gave to the role of Nat Gosling, grandfather of Katey, the poise and polish required of this character who provides the key which unlocks the mystery.

Two occasionally bewildered but always loyal jockeys, Jerry and Bob, were portrayed by veteran Troupers Jon Graves and Marvin Russel to the very evident enjoyment of the audience. Madeleine Hicks appeared all too briefly as Lady Woodbie, mother of Lord Cecil; Paul Hazdovac was Lawyer Quail; John Banghart and Lisa Treat were Lord and Lady Cavendish; and Laverne Seeman, a polished character actress, was the housekeeper, Mrs. Westbrooke.

It has been said many times, "There are no small parts in a play, only small actors." From the audience reaction to each and every performance in The Flying Scud, it must be concluded there were no small parts in the show.

With Holt Wood acting as master of ceremonies, the olio offered a variety of numbers as entertaining as anything in memory. Janine Johnston with her songs in French and English brought the house down, as did Butch Williams with his blues numbers. Director Rhea Diveley and vocal coach Nancy Ness Bowman combined efforts to produce a burlesque version of the quartet from Rigoletto featuring Janine Johnston, Alicia Lovett, Paul Hazdovac and Jim Pruitt which without a doubt was the high point of the olio and fittingly was placed just before the finale. Additional olio players are Alicia Lovett, Butch Williams, La Mariquita, Antonio Cordoba, and Federico Mejia.

The Flying Scud will play Friday and Saturday nights through March 31.

Peninsula Art

An exhibition of paintings by Sik Pang Lee, former Canton and Hong Kong resident now living in San Francisco, will open Monday in the Monterey Peninsula College library gallery, to remain through March 8. The public is invited by the art department, sponsor, to view the show between the hours of 11:00 and 4:00 o'clock daily.

Born in Canton of parents who had retired to their native China from San Francisco, but wanted their sons educated in America, Lee attended the University of Richmond in Virginia, graduating in 1933.

He returned to China to lecture on art at Chung Shan University, later was a professor of art at the Provincial College of the Arts in Canton. He and his wife and three children fled that city for Hong Kong in 1948, one jump ahead of the Communists.

The Lees arrived in San Francisco in 1959 to become permanent residents. Since that time, the artist has exhibited at the Stanford University Gallery, the San Francisco Museum of Art and the Pasadena Museum of Art, and he has participated in numerous group shows and been accorded several one-man shows in China and the United States.

Local artists Joseph Goethe and Dorothy Miller have entered sculptures in the All California Art Exhibition to be held in conjunction with the 47th annual National Orange Show in San Bernardino March 15-25.

This evening at 8:00 o'clock, Dr. Gunther Troche of the Achenbach Foundation will lecture on Durer As An Engraver to members and guests of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts. On exhibit at the group's headquarters is the Fitzhugh collection of Durer's prints recently shown in San Francisco by the Achenbach Foundation.

Rear Admiral Charles D. Wheelock (USN Ret.) is the new president of the local AFA chapter.

Other officers are Leonard Heller and Frederick J. Rider, vice presidents; Sophie E. Harpe, executive secretary; and Dorothy von Meier, treasurer.

The Carmel Art Association is giving a Spring cocktail-buffet party on Saturday evening. The affair will take place in the association's galleries on Dolores Street. Mrs. Douglas McGregor, Art Association president, will receive members and their guests on this occasion.

CARMEL'S LARGEST FAMILY IN SATURDAY EVENING POST

Life in Carmel's largest family is described in the February 17 issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The article on the family of Navy Chief Warrant Officer Francis L. Beardsley and Mrs. Beardsley tells of the organization necessary to run their family of 18 children since last September when their marriage brought together under one roof of the house above Rio Road eight of Mrs. Beardsley's children and ten of Mr. Beardsley's.

One and One is Twenty is the title of the article and refers to the fact that when the former Helen North, a widow, became the wife of Francis Beardsley, a widower, their household numbered 20 persons.

Rain, rain, don't go away

WE'RE STORING IT FOR A SUMMER'S DAY! Wet, wonderful water! Each day, farms, families and factories use it up in million-gallon gulps. PG&E helps satisfy this thirst by storing rain and snow water in high mountain reservoirs. Ordinarily this water would flow to the sea unused . . . sometimes with destructive floods. Instead, we release much of the stored water to generate electricity at just the time when California is thirstiest—in summer. In this way, PG&E's "rainy-day savings" pay off for water users downstream while helping keep your PG&E service a bargain.

MPVS Luncheon And Panel Discussion Tuesday At U.S.O.

The Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services have extended an invitation to a luncheon and panel discussion to be held at the U.S.O. on Tuesday, to all those women who became members of the group during 1961 and 1962.

Mrs. Archer Allen, president, will explain the goals and purposes of MPVS. Other members of the panel are Mrs. Arthur Black, projects; Mrs. A. Boyd Mewborn, thrift shop; Mrs. Margaret Stebbins, services; Mrs. Carl Hering, membership. Mrs. S. Y. Cutler is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon. The meeting is planned as an informal orientation. Panel members will relate MPVS Ways of Work and explain how the organization helps agencies of the community, financially, administratively, and through volunteer services. The board of directors will participate in the orientation and will act as luncheon hostesses.

Initial plans for their Annual Spring Garden Tour and Tea in May stimulated the interest of Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services Inc. members at their February meeting recently. Mrs. Karl Frank, projects chairman, introduced Mrs. Dudley Sanford, who will be this year's chairman of the fund-raising event.

Mrs. Sanford's assistants will be Mrs. Edward McMurtry, Mrs. Wesley Heard and Mrs. John Robinson, members of the committee in charge of selecting gardens for the tour. Mrs. E. J. Murray will be hostess for the tour and tea.

Mrs. Arthur Weeks will have charge of publicity. Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr will be tea chairman; Mrs. Lincoln Noelle will assume responsibility for advertising; Mrs. Perry Boggess, brochure; Mrs. Wendell Coates and Mrs. August Nieto, ticket sales. All proceeds will go to the Visiting Nurses Association.

Mrs. Archer Allen, MPVS president, introduced members of her board and standing committee chairmen for this year at the same meeting. Officers are Mrs. C. Y. Cutler, Mrs. Carl Hering, Mrs. J. B. Farrior and Mrs. Karl J. Frank, vice presidents; Mrs. Robert Rettig, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Cox, corresponding secretary; Miss Irene Palmer, treasurer. Committee chairmen are Mrs. Edward Downard, hospitality; Mrs. Laurids Jorgensen, nominating; Mrs. Ethel Gilliland, Thrift Shop; Mrs. Roy Silent historian; Mrs. L. E. Kinsler, membership; Miss Clara Weston, office and supplies; Mrs. J. Arthur Weeks, publicity; Mrs. Dudley Sanford, garden tour, Mrs. E. P. McMurtry, courtesy.

MPVS representatives to Peninsula agencies this year will be Mrs. Carl Menneken, Carmel Foundation; Mrs. George Marshall, youth centers; Mrs. Charlotte Wight, Committee on Alcoholism; Mrs. Arthur Himmah, Family Service; Mrs. S. O. Blythe international students; Mrs. M. C. Stebbins, mental health; Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr, Monterey Community Council; Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, USO; Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting, Visiting Nurses Association; Mrs. Robert McKay Brown, Red Cross; Mrs. Gregory Hughes, Retarded Children's Association.

Also announced was the fact that March proceeds of the MPVS Thrift Shop will be donated to the Children's Home Society. As a reciprocal effort, CHS members are collecting merchandise to be sold at the shop. April proceeds of the Thrift Shop will be allotted to the USO for the purpose of renovating the kitchen at the servicemen's recreation center. Tentative plans are to allocate further monthly proceeds to youth centers, senior citizens' projects, and the Health Drive.

MPVS members already are planning for a second fund-raising event in October. This will be a hobby show and bazaar at the Fairgrounds. Receipts of this project, also will be donated to local philanthropic organizations.

Unification In Europe Ranks As Turning Point In World History, Dr. Rappaport Tells WAC Members

"So great are the political changes now taking place in Europe, with their implications for new world alignments, power balances and trade relations, that when they are consummated they will in all probability rank as one of the greatest turning points in history; perhaps even dwarf the hitherto unprecedentedly swift rise of the Soviet Republic," Dr. Armin Rappaport of the University of California history department told members of the Monterey Peninsula World Affairs Council at their last meeting.

Dr. Rappaport reminded his audience of the fact that since the 14th century Europe has been an almost continuous battleground, with wars successively vying with preceding wars in the measure of their destructiveness of human and property values, culture and the civilizing process.

"These expositions of strife," said Dr. Rappaport, "attendant antagonisms, hates, envies and the like, may all be attributed to the existence of political boundaries and the artificial relations they set up. Without these boundaries, the obvious self-interest of the inhabitants would have engendered, automatically, a natural exchange of goods and services between peoples.

"After World War II, Europe had had enough of war and the idea of blurring war-inducing national boundaries attained the status of a concrete goal to be attained," he continued.

First potent factor in the adoption of the European unity idea, according to Dr. Rappaport, was a feeling that Germany must not be encouraged to go on the loose again, also that any ostracism accorded Germany would lead to retaliation and thus tend to again threaten world peace.

Second contribution to European unity, in Dr. Rappaport's opinion, was the reversal of traditional American foreign policy which stemmed from the idea that European squabbles were advantageous, generally, to the United States.

"It was in 1946," Rappaport averred, "that U.S. foreign policy began to change from tacit approval of European squabbling to encouragement of European unity. The spectre of Europe succumbing to the domination of a Soviet conquest, leaving this country with no buffer, began to be felt in higher echelons of our foreign policy makers and to gain more popular acceptance.

"This change in foreign policy thinking became real with the inauguration of the Marshall Plan," Dr. Rappaport pointed out, and added that the plan's purpose was to revive a working economy in the world so as to permit emergence of political and social conditions in which free institutions could exist.

"Further," he emphasized, "in in the various articles of foreign aid allotments, clauses were inserted admonishing the recipients to seek unity with one another."

Our policy toward such unity, Dr. Rappaport added, was expressed by John Foster Dulles, U.S. representative to the United Nations, who stated in 1948 that this country wanted Europe to have political and economic strength, unity, prosperity in its own right, moral and intellectual dynamism, also the capability of inventing a new industrial revolution to multiply the productivity of human labor.

"This policy has taken effect," Dr. Rappaport stated. "As I travel in Europe today, I am conscious of a new and refreshing birth of confidence everywhere. Men in all walks of life exhibit hope in the future as never before. They see a world where individual effort may reap a commensurate reward, where they can call their souls their own, sink or swim by their own efforts. Coupled with this individual elation, there is a distinct element of relief that they are free of the obligation to act in conformity with the wishes of the United States.

"Such," observed Dr. Rappaport, "are some of the political factors in the fast-progressing unification of Europe which we started with our Marshall Plan

"Progress has been orderly, but assured. Shortly tariff barriers will have been erased to the extent that any European worker may pursue his trade anywhere without regard to origin of birth. Complete freedom of trade is planned to be in effect by 1972."

Britain, according to Dr. Rappaport, has always looked down upon Europe, ascribing to it an instability and an inferior moral and legal outlook. Now this attitude is changing due to an awakening to the fact that E.E.C. is succeeding and that European integration is heading toward confederation rather than federalization. Also, Britain's economy needs the stimulous of free trade.

"Manifestly, Britain has got to act," Dr. Rappaport emphasized.

"And what of the United States?" he queried. "Now that the European industrial potential that we so fervently sought, and so faithfully financed, is coming about, how are we to meet the competition it is bringing?

"In my opinion," he added, "our President must be provided with the means for trade negotiations as situations require. I doubt the 87th Congress will give President Kennedy all he asks for, or even allow him to act effectively.

"I shall have to admit I am unable to predict the outcome, or the consequences of such outcome, but I do know that they will greatly affect me, you, and every other person in the United States," he concluded.

FARR SPEAKER AT AIP STATE CONVENTION

Politics for Planners was the title of the talk State Senator Fred Farr gave Saturday at the state convention of the California chapter of the American Institute of Planners in Santa Rosa.

His speech illustrated the manner in which political action attains goals in planning by citing the California Planning Act, the state's scenic easement law, and the forthcoming March 15 report to the legislature by the Inter-Departmental Committee on Scenic Highways. Senator Farr introduced legislation which led to the enactment of the planning act and scenic easement law, also establishment of the scenic highway committee.

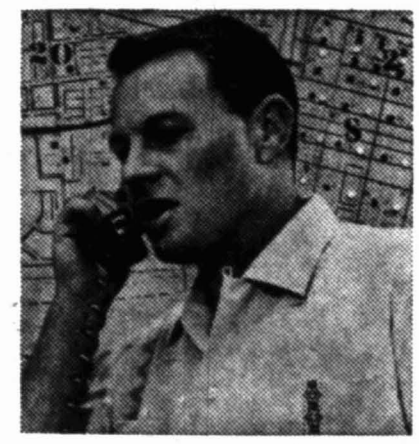
WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

People often ask me what are telephone area codes. Well, here's the answer. The country is divided into telephone areas—each has a different number called an "AREA CODE". This code is a vital part of your telephone number—it tells what part of the country you live in.

You don't have to use an area code if you're calling a telephone number located in the same code area as yours. But when you dial another area, it's necessary to dial that area code—then the rest of the number. Our operators too must dial area codes. If you place a call with the operator, giving her the area code first will help in putting your call through faster.

* * * * *



Imagine spending 8,760 hours on the phone. It might seem impossible (to anyone but a teenager). Yet a survey shows that's how many hours the average man in his lifetime spends telephoning.

This in itself is a good case for having extension phones wherever you need them to save steps.

So if you want to make your telephone hours more enjoyable, find out about extension phones—in colors and different styles—for your home or office. Call your business office or ask your telephone service man.

* * * * *

"What are area codes?" The country is divided into telephone areas—each with a different number called an "AREA CODE." This code is a vital part of your telephone number—it tells what part of the country you live in. Here in the Monterey area, for example, the Area Code is 408. A person dialing you from San Francisco would dial 408, then your telephone number. You don't have to use an area code if you're calling a telephone number located in the same code area as yours. But when you dial another area, it's necessary to dial that area code—then the rest of the number. Our operators, too, must dial area codes. If you place a call with the operator, giving her the area code first will help in putting your call through faster.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The nature of true happiness will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Selections from the Bible in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Soul" include these verses from I Chronicles (16): "Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord . . . Glory and honour are in his presence; strength and gladness are in his place."

One of the citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 57): "Happiness is spiritual, born of Truth and Love. It is unselfish; therefore it cannot exist alone, but requires all mankind to share it."

Secretary Of The Interior Udall Interested In County's Plan To Save Coast, Senator Farr Reports

Monterey County's endeavors to preserve the coastline south of Carmel interest Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, according to State Senator Fred Farr of Carmel who spent two days conferring with him in Washington, D. C., immediately before last week's two-day session of the California Legislature.

Secretary Udall particularly emphasized the need for federal, state and local cooperation in national conservation planning and was particularly emphatic about this need in view of future population expansion, Senator Farr reports.

In inviting Senator Farr to Washington, Secretary Udall stated that he did so because the latter is an outstanding proponent of new conservation measures in California, also that California conservationwise, in recent years has been a leader in providing creative new answers to this state's conservation problems. He also asked Senator Farr to be an advisor on conservation and outdoor recreation to the Department of the Interior.

At the Washington meetings, Senator Farr says, Udall stressed the department's new national conservation and outdoor recreation program which will "galvanize action by state and local officials."

The Department of the Interior is planning a legislative program in response to the report to President Kennedy on January 31 by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Committee headed by Laurence Rockefeller.

The report stated only two percent of the Atlantic coastline is in public ownership, or 336 miles, but in contrast, 200 miles of the California coast are in federal, state or local ownership; all but 20 miles of the Oregon coast is publicly owned.

The Department of the Interior's legislative program, Senator Farr says, will include expansion of national parks and wildlife refuges, and Secretary Udall, in his talks with him, pointed out that the entire program, to be good, depends on the cooperation of federal, state and local government as interrelated groups.

It was in discussing this need for cooperation that he expressed interest in Monterey County's endeavors to save the coast south of Carmel to the San Luis Obispo County line by means of a master plan for the region.

Secretary Udall, also, according to Senator Farr, expressed interest in the $150 million bond issue to be proposed in March to the California Legislature and on which Californians will vote in November. This proposal is to provide funds for the acquisition of more beaches and parks in the state.

He also pointed out to Senator Farr the necessity for conservation planning at all levels, and was emphatic that this must be done to provide for population expansion.

While in the East, besides conferring with Secretary Udall, Senator Farr attended President Kennedy's press conference with Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law; met with Attorney General Robert Kennedy; heard President Adoula of the Congo address a session of the United Nations; was present at a Congressional session on federal aid to colleges; conferred with Elizabeth Smith, U. S. Treasurer, John Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Margaret Price of the same committee, Postmaster General Edward Day, and Fred Dulton, assistant secretary of the committee for congressional relations. He also met Speaker John McCormack and went to the American Bar Association reception for members of Congress.

James Henry

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for James Ronald Henry, who died Monday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. The Reverend David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiated at the rites, held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove.

Mr. Henry, 86, had been a resident of Carmel for more than 15 years, coming here from Beverly Hills. He was a native of Chicago, born on December 25, 1875. He was married there on January 11, 1911, to Miss Jessie Hill, who survives him.

A career businessman, Mr. Henry was for 43 years an executive with the National Biscuit Company. In addition to Mrs. Henry, a brother, Robert C. Henry, also survives.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Edward Myers

J. Edward Studley Myers, 54, of Carmel, died Friday in a local hospital after having been ill for a brief time.

Born June 20, 1907, in New York City, Mr. Myers was a veteran of World War II and former Naval lieutenant. He came to Carmel four years ago, making his home near San Antonio Street and Eighth Avenue.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Ethel S. Kilpatrick, and a son, Pieter Studley Myers, both of Hillsborough. Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday morning from Crosby Gray Colonial Chapel at Burlingame, with private interment in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

AUDUBON STUDY GROUP MEETS WEDNESDAY

Members of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society interested in the study of local birds, will meet at the home of Mrs. Phillips Finlay, southeast corner of 17-Mile Drive and Western Drive, opposite Seal Rock, Pebble Beach, on Wednesday morning at 10:00 o'clock. This group has been exchanging facts about a bird or habitat each month. Birds of the marshes will be discussed at the next meeting. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Elementary P-TA To Hear Talk Tuesday On Testing Concepts

General concepts involved in various testing programs will be the topic discussed at the combined meeting of the Carmel Elementary School P-TA Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Sunset school cafeteria.

Dr. Thomas J. Fitzgibbons, who is now with the California Test Bureau in Monterey, will speak on the various phases of school tests: the purposes of the testing program in schools; the difference among the various tests now in use; the interpretation of various test scores.

Dr. Fitzgibbon has had experience in the public school testing program as coordinator of guidance in the Alton, Illinois, schools. He is a graduate of Western Illinois University, and received his Ph.D in counseling and guidance from Bradley University.

INQUIRY FORUM AT MISSION

Why Catholics Go To Mass Every Sunday will be the topic discussed at the Catholic Inquiry Forum at Carmel Mission Chapel on Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Father Walter Anthony, Paulist missionary priest, will speak on the scriptural foundation for the doctrine of the Eucharist, one of the seven sacraments of the Church. He will explain the Sacrifice of the Mass, and show a film on the Mass, as it is celebrated in a Catholic church.

MPC Dean's List Names 30 Students From Carmel Area

A Carmel Valley student, Madge Holmes, won top rating on the Monterey Peninsula College 1961 fall semester Dean's List as one of three students to attain highest honors with a straight A grade point average, according to Ralph B. Smith, dean of students.

Out of the 109 students—or ten percent of the MPC enrollment—to attain Dean's List academic honors, 30 were from Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach.

Those who earned high honors with grade point averages of 3.5-3.99 were JoAnne Kinion, Ann Mary Kwan, Gary Mitchener, Patricia Rhodes, Wanda Robinson, and Jearren Stallings of Carmel; Sharon Predmore and Nancy Warner of Carmel Valley.

Local students who obtained high honors with 3.0-3.49 grade point averages were George Crispo, Gregory Currivan, Kathryn Duggan, Mela Ferrer, Leslie Hamilton, Marie Kwan, Ellen Merrifield, Herbert Myers, Joanne Nix, Pamela Perry, Lynn Porter, James B. Pruitt, Jr., Bruce Robinson, Bonnie Schuh, and John E. Young of Carmel; Michael Antoncich, Katherine E. Bliss, Gail Dutra and Reed Nessel of Carmel Valley; Donna Knowles and Michael Smith of Pebble Beach.

Charles Roeth

Charles F. B. Roeth, 67, San Francisco architect who lived for a time in Carmel and was widely known in this area, died Saturday after a long illness.

A native of the Bay area and a graduate of the University of California in 1917, Mr. Roeth served with the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I.

His career as an architect was divided between two periods, the first following the war when he was one of the designers of buildings for the campus of his alma mater, and was associated in business for a time with John Galen Howard.

The second period followed Mr. Roeth's activity in public service, which spanned the years from 1934, when he became Alameda County director for the State Emergency Relief Administration, to 1957, following his service as Northern California director of the War Manpower Commission, and later the U.S. Employment Service..

His most recent work as an architect was with the firm of Masten, Hurd and Gwathmey.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Roeth of San Francisco, survives him, as do a son, Charles M. Roeth of Willits, California, and a daughter, Mrs. Ellis Kaplan. Private services were held in the Bay area.

William Kilduff

Memorial services were conducted Friday at All Saints' Episcopal Church for Commander William Douglas Kilduff (USN Ret), who died last Thursday in Oak Knoll Naval Hospital after a long illness.

A resident of Carmel for the past two decades, Commander Kilduff was an Annapolis graduate of 1911, and had served for 30 years in the Navy prior to his retirement.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ann Dobson Kilduff; a son, William Dobson Kilduff, and four grandchildren, all of Carmel.

Sees Former Carmelites in East

State Senator Fred Farr on his recent visit to the East saw his cousin, Mrs. Robert Hart (Florence Brown), and her husband in Connecticut. In New York he spent some time with Mr. and Mrs. John Abernethy. The former is now a special assistant to Mennen Williams, U.S. Secretary for African affairs.

He also stopped in St. Louis, Missouri, where his older daughter, Francesca, vacationing from St. Stephen's College, was a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Klyman. Mr. Klyman is the Sunday editor of the St. Louis Dispatch, and Mrs. Klyman is public relations director for the St. Louis Opera outdoor concerts. The Klymans told Senator Farr they plan to become permanent Carmel residents following Mr. Klyman's retirement a year from this coming June.

Scotts Go To Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Scott of Carmel were among several Peninsula residents who recently sailed on the S.S. Acapulco from Los Angeles to Mexico. Their cruise included visits to Acapulco, Taxco, Cuernavaca, and Mexico City.

McBoyle Lewises Visit Carmel

Here over the week end to play golf between showers and to renew old Carmel friendships, were Mr. and Mrs. McBoyle Lewis of Belvedere. As the former Frances Wright, Mrs. Lewis spent a good deal of time here in the '20's and '30's. "Of course, Carmel has changed tremendously, but it still has the atmosphere of the old days," she declares.

Dinner For Natalie And John

Mrs. Borden Stevenson and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai E. Stevenson will give a dinner party tomorrow night at the Beach Club in honor of their son, John Fell Stevenson, and his bride-to-be, Natalie Raymond Owings, daughter of Nathaniel Alexander Owings of Big Sur and Mrs. John S. Barnes of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Prior to the wedding Saturday at the Big Sur home of the bride's father, Mr. and Mrs. John Boit Morse will entertain out-of-town guests at a luncheon at their Pebble Beach home.

Many of the wedding guests will be staying at Del Monte Lodge, including Ambassador Stevenson.

G. C. Wolterding, formerly of Chicago, who divides his time between his ranch at Big Sur and an apartment at Pebble Beach, will have some of the wedding party as his house guests at Rancho Rico, near the Owingses' cliffside home overlooking the Pacific.

Dr. Plank Visits Watsons

Dr. John Plank, assistant professor of government at Harvard University, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, and Mr. Watson, in Carmel this week and last.

Last Thursday afternoon he was guest of honor at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Saul Weingarten given by the Latin American study group of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club and answered questions about Latin America asked by those present.

Dr. Plank accompanied President Kennedy's brother, Ted, on his recent visit to Latin American countries. He also has spent much time in South America and speaks the languages of this area.

Dr. Roth Visits Doners

On their way through Carmel on Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Roth of Oakland stopped to see the Ephraim Doners.

A specialist in ephebiatrics and author of The Teen-Age Years, Dr. Roth is the founder and director of one of the first teen-age clinics in the country, that of the Kaiser Foundation's Permanente Medical Group in Oakland.

Adolescents, who often think they are too old for the services of a pediatrician, but are timid at the thought of visiting an "adult" doctor, feel at home with a specialist who deals exclusively with their own medical and emotional problems, according to Dr. Roth.

Tri Delts to Meet

Members of the Monterey Bay Area Alumnae Chapter of Delta Delta Delta will meet on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Wilson, Del Rey Oaks.

Following the business meeting, members will hold a white elephant sale among themselves to raise money for an as yet undetermined philanthropic project for the year.

All Tri Delts living in this area are invited to attend the meeting, and for further information are asked to call Mrs. Karl Frank, MA 4-1143.

Krons Here From Observatory

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Kron, who live on Mount Hamilton, spent the week end at their Hatton Fields Mesa home with their five children, Donald, Charles, Richard, Jenny Caroline, and Virginia.

An astronomer at Lick Observatory, Dr. Kron tries to come to Carmel with his family "every other week end, if we can."

According to Mrs. Kron, who, besides running her household, edits the publications of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, the family's short but frequent holidays here provide just the right contrast to their life at the observatory. "For one thing, it's so much warmer in Carmel!" On the other hand, Mrs. Kron reports that during the recent "big snow," there was far more of it on the Santa Cruz mountains than on Mount Hamilton, "but the children had better sledding than usual, even with less snow"

The community at the observatory has a 24-pupil elementary school, part of the San Jose educational system, with one teacher assisted by two of the mothers.

Was there anything spectacular to see at Lick the evening of the eclipse and the five planets' conjunction? "No, it was too cloudy," said Mrs. Kron.

Friends Honor Sam Colburn

Honoring Sam Colburn, whose current exhibit of watercolors at the Hobbs Gallery on Union Street, San Francisco, drew great praise from Alfred Frankenstein, art critic of a San Francisco newspaper, a group of admiring friends met late Sunday afternoon at the Colburns' for a delighted celebration.

Of Sam's show, entitled The Coastal Image, Mr. Frankenstein describes the artist's technique, and then goes on to say, "His forms are very free and there is a sense of sea movement in their fluid, open-form relationships which is a dramatic experience in itself, but it is a drama tempered by as fine an eye for the subtleties of watercolor as this country has produced since Marin's heyday." The Colburn exhibit in San Francisco opened February 4 and will continue until March 2.

Among those who gathered around the punch bowl to toast Sammy were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smithson, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Michael, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Merz, Mr. and Mrs. George Willox, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Goines, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dreeson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stone, Dr. and Mrs. Eric Berne, Edith Dinkin, Peggy Long, Claire Cross, and Glenn Minshall.

Jury Named For Mardi Gras Ball

Mrs. Robert D. Clampett, general chairman for the Mardi Gras gala dinner and masked ball, to be held March 6 at Casa Munras, Monterey, under the sponsorship of the French Alliance of the Monterey Peninsula, has announced that an informal jury has been chosen who will judge the masks, heads or costumes at the party, and will decide on three winners.

Members of the jury, named by Mrs. J. E. Carlson, president of the French Alliance, are Miss Irene Alexander, Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mrs. Clampett, Captain Ralph Arnt and August Armanasco. Judgment will be on the basis of the most interesting, the most original, and the most characteristically French disguise.

Captain Arnt, serving as king of the Mardi Gras, will choose a queen that night, and will also be in charge of distributing a bottle of champagne to each of the winners.

Guests preferring not to make their own masks or head disguises will be able to obtain a mask, free of charge, from the reception committee at the entrance to the dining room on the evening of the dance.

Cocktails will be available starting at 7:00 o'clock, and dinner will be served at 8:00 o'clock. Those wishing reservations may call Mrs. Germaine Olivie, MA 4-7113, or Mrs. Clampett, MA 4-8100.

Miss Gates to Attend Conference

Miss Doris Gates of Carmel Meadows will attend the fourth annual conference of the California Association of Teachers of English in San Diego next week end.

Elementary, secondary and college and university teachers of English from 45 California communities will discuss the teaching of language, literature, and composition, and will take part in a workshop.

Miss Gates, a well-known writer of children's books, is literary editor of Ginn and Company, publishers of school texts.

The engagement of Robin Burnham and Ensign Richard Watkins Holt, U.S.N., is being announced this week by Robin's mother, Mrs. A. Carol McKenney of Pebble Beach and Dr. McKenney.

The bride-to-be, whose father is Dr. Clark J. Burnham of Piedmont, is the sister of Mrs. George A. Hynes, Jr., of Greenbrae, and Wendy Burnham, who attends Wellesley College. She has been living in San Francisco since graduating from the University of California, where she was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The late Dr. and Mrs. Clark J. Burnham of Berkeley and the late Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Chapman of Piedmont were her grandparents.

Ensign Holt is the son of Mrs. Richard W. Holt of Brussels, Belgium, and the late Mr. Holt. Mrs. William S. Jett III of Palo Alto is his sister, and he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Mahon of Port Huron, Michigan. Dean Acheson is his cousin.

Robin is a graduate of Sunset School and Carmel High School. Her fiance also attended the same Carmel schools before entering the U.S. Naval Academy. He graduated from Annapolis last June and is now attached to the U.S.S. Midway based at Alameda.

Robin and Dick plan to marry in the fall.

Michael Odello is Christened

Michael Bruno Odello, two-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Odello, and the brother of John and Clara Odello, was christened by Father Roger Dieudonne Sunday afternoon in Carmel Mission Basilica.

Following the baptism, a family party was held at the Hatton Fields home of the baby's parents. "It was a very gay and happy affair," reports Michael's aunt, Mrs. Emilio Odello. "We had the traditional christening cake, and there were dozens of little cousins running all over the place."

David Gray Weds Nancy Bailes

Wendy Bailes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bailes of Walnut Creek, became the bride of David Anthony Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Percy Gray of Carmel, at a simple double ring ceremony performed at her parents' home on February 4 at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Wendy, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full-skirted, knee-length gown of white net over taffeta, and carried white roses. Her illusion veil was held in place by a petal-shaped crown of white brocade.

Her three attendants, including two sisters, wore identical dresses shading from pink to deep red, and carried matching roses.

Christopher Paul Gray was his brother's best man.

The bride's mother was attired in a floral silk gown and wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. Gray chose a beige wool dress with matching hat and shoes, and harmonizing orchids.

Masses of white flowers of all varieties decorated the house, and the reception was held outdoors around the swimming pool.

The young couple, who first met when they were students at Monterey Peninsula College, are living in San Jose, where both are continuing their education. David plans on a career as an athletic coach specializing in gymnastics.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Gray to their son's wedding were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Gray (Anona Jaxson), and their youngest son, Andrew. Among other Carmelites who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Sutton, Mrs. Germaine Olivie and her son, Pierre.

School was covered, also Carmelo Street between Sixteenth Avenue and the State Park parking lot. Residents of the area threatened to sue the county on Monday. Tuesday the county road department maintained they did everything possible. Yesterday, Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson emphasized that for five years the county has been trying to establish a flood control district at the mouth of the Carmel River, also that the bar area is state-owned park land.

Otherwise, Carmelites welcome the end of the drought. And it's still raining today.

Heavy rains in the Carmel area have handed a slight set-back to the rapidly moving construction project at the new Carmel Junior High School at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

The construction, which is in the hands of Daniels and House contractors of Monterey, was 10 days ahead of schedule on February 8, but rain caused a loss of four days, giving the project a net "jump" of only six days, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Wayne Greenfield.

However, just in case everyone is too complacent about progress, the school board last night was told about at least one problem. Gophers have reared their curious heads on the new athletic field, tunneling busily under the terrain which workmen have been trying to compact.

"But we're experimenting now with something called a gopher gun," a spokesman for the district said. "It shoots pellets of poisoned grain into the burrows."

"It'll never work," gloomily predicted one school board member, obviously speaking from long experience in the ways of gophers. "But we can keep trying."

Monterey Peninsula Junior College trustees last night decided to ask 12 persons to serve on a bond election executive committee. Two members will be from Carmel, one from Carmel Valley, the rest from other Peninsula communities.

First meeting of the group will be on February 26. The bond election to raise $2,240,000 to purchase the MPC campus from Monterey Union High School District will be on April 10.

Trustees also wrote a letter to the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Institute of Architects stating that the junior college district is seeking a campus architect and is awaiting applications for the job. They also decided to have a planning committee of citizens and faculty members to review future expansion proposed by 1975 in the Skidmore, Ownings and Merrill master plan.

Members of the Carmel Republican Women's Club emphasize that they register voters only on the first Friday of each month at the Irving Lundborg and Co. office on Dolores Street.

Edmund G. Brown, Governor of California, will come here to meet Peninsula residents on Tuesday on his "report to the people" campaign. All persons interested in meeting the Governor are invited to do so in the evening at the Casa Munras where a dinner in his honor will be given at 7:00 o'clock, preceded by a no-host social hour at 6:00 o'clock.

City Hall will be closed all day next Thursday, Washington's birthday.

Schools in the Carmel school system will also be closed for the holiday and not reopen until Monday morning.

The Carmel Citizens Committee, which now has over 400 members, has sent a letter to Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee stating that the group on January 22 unanimously adopted a resolution "That all major roads on the Monterey Peninsula should be of the scenic or parkway type, rather than the freeway or expressway type."

The letter also praises Mr. Pattee for his statement that he, with others, plan to introduce a resolution in the Assembly seeking to control the powers of the California Highway Commission and restore to the people some rights concerning their road systems. The committee also urges Mr. Pattee in the letter to carry out this plan as it will "call attention to the rising tide of public indignation throughout California."

Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for Governor of California, is now on a four-day tour of the state. Saturday at 3:00 o'clock, he will attend a reception at the Lamplighter Lodge in Sunnyvale. At 7:00 o'clock in the evening he will be guest speaker at the benefit dinner for the California State Junior Chamber of Commerce Building Fund at the Hawaiian Gardens in San Jose.

Peninsula residents who wish to meet Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, are invited by the Carmel Women's Democratic Club to attend a dinner in his honor Saturday night in the Monterey Room at the Casa Munras. Tickets must be obtained today by telephoning Mrs. Saul Weingarten, MAyfair 4-6564. They may be purchased at the Casa Munras, too.

The dinner will also honor Mr. Salinger's mother, Mrs. J. E. Carlson of Carmel for her work for the Carmel Women's Democratic Club.

Superintendent of Schools Stuart Mitchell is spending this week in Atlantic City as a delegate to the American Association of School Administrators.

While in the eastern states, he'll also interview candidates for teaching positions in the Carmel District and visit schools in the East and Midwest which are experimenting with flexible scheduling are related plans slanted toward more efficiency and maximum scholastic achievement in school operation.

Mitchell will return to his office February 26.

The idea of a trimester system to speed up college education is being considered by a Monterey Peninsula College faculty committee. MPC president, Dr. Frederick R. Huber, and Max Tadlock, MPC Faculty Association president, emphasize that the study by the professional relations committee is "purely exploratory."

A model of Carmel Valley Manor, a $4,000,000 non-sectarian retirement community to be located on the former Noel Sullivan property in Carmel Valley, was shown in a recent special ceremony in San Francisco. The architectural firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill prepared the model.

Carmel Valley Manor will be sponsored by a non-profit corporation, Northern California Congregational Retirement Homes. It will provide 170 living units, also community recreation and dining facilities. Dr. William David Pratt is resident director of the project located five miles from Carmel.

According to Governor Edmund G. Brown's message to the two-day budget session of the California Legislature last week, the almost $2.9 billion 1962 budget's item, $1.2 billion, is for education and of this $863 million will be paid to local school districts. California's budget again topped those of all the other 49 states.

AMBULANCE CALL

Volunteer members of the Carmel Fire Department answered a police call for an ambulance Sunday afternoon at 2:11 o'clock and took Miss Henrietta Keizer of Palo Alto to the Peninsula Community Hospital. She had received a head cut in an accident in the vicinity of Ocean Avenue and Scenic Drive.

A Reunion and a Trip

Margot Young had a recent reunion here with Mrs. Frank Eynon of Los Angeles, a cousin Mrs. Young had not seen since 1930. Mr. and Mrs. Eynon have bought a guest lodge on the Redwood Highway near Eureka, and at the end of March Mrs. Young will go north to stay with them there for a month.

After this, she and Mrs. Eynon have planned a trip abroad. Visiting relatives in many parts of Germany including Heidelberg, Frankfurt, and Bavaria, Mrs. Young will welcome another reunion, this time with her son, Charles, who is stationed with the Air Force in Bitzberg. She will be back in Carmel in October or November.

Valentine Party

Sylvia Zoellin entertained the girls of her first grade class with a valentine-making party on Friday at her home on Whitman Circle.

Invited were Jennifer Bestor, Joan Chandler, Jill Hibbe, Leslie Hoffman, Martha Jensen, Lora Lowrie, Terry McFann, Naomi Beth Marcus, Elizabeth Mullnix, Midi Sedletzky, and Lesley Lamb. Sylvia's little sister, Julie, helped with hostessing duties. Another friend, Randy Smith, also a first grader, attended.

Refreshments served at a gaily decorated table were valentine cookies, ice cream and punch.

Sharon Hibbe helped judge the beautiful valentines made by the girls. Parents of the hostess are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Zoellin.

Boz Williams Arrives

After a four-day trip from the east coast as a car passenger, Boz Williams reached Barstow Saturday afternoon in the aftermath of the storm to find that all highway traffic was at a standstill. So he took the train to Fresno, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, drove there to meet him. They all got home in the small hours of Sunday morning. Boz is here for an indefinite visit with his family.

Party For Denise

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts, their daughter Nancy, and their sons, Dio and David, entertained last Thursday evening at a party at their home in honor of Denise Scott's twentieth birthday. Down from Mills College for the between-semesters break, Denise, whose parents formerly lived in Carmel, spent part of the short holiday visiting the Roberts, and part of it at the home of Lena Virgin, a San Jose State College student.

The party included dinner, a birthday cake, dancing the twist, and a turn at the Cypress Bowl to wind up the evening. Other guests, besides Denise and Lena, were Margaret Able and Sandra Ammerman, Norman Lauston, Winston Sargent, and Gabriel Levia from Central America.

David Berry Arrives

Born last Wednesday in Peninsula Community Hospital was David Jeffress Berry, first child for Mr. and Mrs. Phillip S. Berry of Carmel. Both parents are recent graduates of Stanford University, who have moved to the Peninsula while the new father completes military training at Fort Ord.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Hans Jenny of Berkeley and Samuel H. Berry of Piedmont. Visiting Carmel is maternal grandmother Mrs. H. Jeffress Harris of San Marino, who with Mr. Harris of San Marino completes the roster of grandparents. The mother of the baby is the former Helen Harris of San Marino.

Marcia Hovick To Read

Speaker for the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, will be Mrs. Jack (Marcia) Hovick. Known on the Peninsula for her dramatic readings, Mrs. Hovick will read selections of ballads, old and new, humorous and serious.

Hostesses for the general meeting of the Woman's Club February 5 were Mrs. Royal Elliott, Mrs. Alton Walker, Mrs. G. P. Lamont, and Miss Florence Harper. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Stuart Moser, Mrs. Walter Stevens, Mrs. Edgar Mayberry and Miss Lucy Mills.

Trustees Appoint Four Members For Junior High Staff

Appointments of four new members to the new Carmel Junior High School were approved by the school board last night in executive session.

Mrs. Jaqueline Senoir Lewis will teach health and physical education. A former teacher at Watsonville, she has made her home in Carmel for a number of years. For the past two years, she has been semi-inactive as a teacher, serving as an occasional substitute for school districts of the Peninsula.

Appointed counsellors were Mrs. Sarah Sproull and Neil Jensen, both this year at Sunset School. Mrs. Guy (Thelma) Stohr, also of Sunset, will be librarian at the new school.

The new appointments swell the number of the new staff to five to date, counting principal Dr. Walter Klas, who was appointed to his post last year.

Carmel Youth Center Officers Attend Berkeley Convention

By Nancy Baxter

Six Carmel Youth Center officers went to the 14th annual Park and Recreation Convention held in Berkeley last week end. They were Ricky Baldwin, Carol Creighton, Jack Hinchcliff, Vicki Hutchinson, Bob Larson and Nancy Baxter. Youth Center Director Jack Giles and Bill Bartlett accompanied them.

The group attended special discussion programs dealing with problems such as the older teens and how to organize and operate a teen center, also sessions on successful teen programs and California Youth in Action.

All of the officers felt the meetings were interesting and informative and well worth attending. After talking with administrators and directors of other youth centers, they realized more than ever before how fortunate Carmel teens are to have a youth center such as their community's.

Each expressed great pride in the Carmel Youth Center which is run for teens by teens with the able assistance of an adult board of directors.

ART COMMISSION MEMBER

The name of Rupert Leach was by mistake left out of last week's story on appointments to the Carmel Arts Commission. Mr. Leach was appointed to a three-year term on the commission, to succeed Vaughn Shoemaker, who has moved away. The appointment was approved at the February 7 City Council meeting.

I KNOW A LITTLE HOUSE

WITH FLOWERS IN ITS HAIR and the Pacific Ocean at its feet. It's a friendly little house of indeterminate age, unpretentious, but sturdily built of stucco. From its windows or the deck you can enjoy the passing boats, the seals, and the sea, because there isn't much housework as your little treasure has small rooms and doesn't demand much attention. Fireplace, of course, because sometimes it's fun to cuddle up before it while you watch the moonlight on the surf . . . What? Oh yes. The price: $21,500. The terms: $5,000 down, $150 per month. The location: Pacific Grove. May we show you where?

Dr. Leo Stanley, Retired San Quentin Physician, Rockets Around State

cinating story of all.

Tall, very tan, with a quizzical expression as if he's about to cut loose with a dozen questions on symptoms, Dr. Stanley also has something of the look of a Naval officer about him, though his career as a captain in the Navy was no longer than most, just for the duration of World War II.

In Chronicles of San Quentin, a book published last year, author Kenneth Lamott refers to Dr. Leo Leonidas Stanley as the prison's "scorpion-tongued chief medical officer," and further calls him "irascible, skeptical and profane, and a terrible sentimentalist."

"The Old Croaker," or "the Chief Croaker," titles he came by through his years on the job, were and are applied to him with the greatest respect by friends on both sides of the wall.

Lamott also tells how Dr. Stanley, during his time at the prison, did early research in glandular rejuvenation experiments involving the implanting and injection of material from human and animal testicles in the bodies of volunteer elderly prisoners, and how the San Francisco papers had a field day when three of the inoculated oldsters went over the wall.

Later Dr. Stanley's work was plagiarized and popularized until at one time nearly every cocktail party had at least one conversation going about "goat glands."

Dr. Stanley's greatest contribution, according to Lamott, was undoubtedly his work on sanitation. When Dr. Stanley first went to San Quentin, fresh out of medical school in 1913, at a salary of $75 per month, he found deplorable conditions: five or six men in a single cell drinking from the same dirty cup, no industrial protection in the jute mill where the men breathed in the raw jute dust constantly, and a high mortality rate from disease.

By 1918, thanks largely to Dr. Stanley's efforts, the tuberculosis death rate alone had dropped to one-eighth what it had been in the 1880's. He also did research on venereal disease and the relation of disease to crime.

"When I went to San Quentin," Dr. Stanley says, "I considered the job just a stop-gap until I could go into private practice a few months later." However, Dr. Stanley in his 38 years outstayed five San Quentin wardens, and earned an enduring prominence in the fields of both medicine and penology.

There is a chapter on Dr. Stanley in the book, American Doctors of Destiny (Normandie House, Chicago, 1940) by Frank Jirka. In fact, so many people have written of Dr. Stanley's work, including Dr. Stanley himself who wrote Men At Their Worst (Appleton-Century, New York, 1940), a best-selling book on his prison career, that it seems almost redundant to write more about him. Still, there is more to say.

Leo Stanley was born in Oregon, youngest of six sons of the country doctor at Dallas. He was reared at San Miguel in the Salinas Valley, where times were hard, and he cut lawns, looked after horses, worked in threshing crews, drove a cook wagon for harvesters, and waited on tables to put himself through high school and college. He even had a job cleaning brick after the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

In an article he once wrote for his fraternity (Alpha Kappa Kappa) magazine, Dr. Stanley said he never really had a good rest until Pearl Harbor came along. He had joined the Naval Reserve in 1935, but it wasn't until the shooting war began that he was called to active duty. Except the duty wasn't exactly "active." He had been assigned to the heavy cruiser Minneapolis, which was at the time far out in the Pacific, her position a top secret, kept even from Dr. Stanley.

He spent many weeks searching for her, with the help of the Navy, of course, which apparently wasn't much help at all. He went to Hawaii, Fiji, the New Hebrides, looking for his ship, and when he finally caught up with her, the Minneapolis had suffered battle damage and was laid up in Pearl Harbor for repairs. Dr. Stanley waited and waited. He received no orders.

"Finally, I felt it time to make further inquiry at headquarters. Surely the Minneapolis was back? The head medical officer showed surprise at seeing me. Yes, the Minneapolis had returned to duty, in fact had been in battle again and had her bow blown off and a big hole in her middle and was beached at Tulagi." Dr. Stanley finally put in some professional time at the hospital in Pearl Harbor, but his is still one of the stranger odysseys of World War II.

Since his retirement from prison work, Dr. Stanley has done lots of three downstairs. Rooms 14 and 15 (downstairs) are currently in use by the curriculum department, which would retain them next year and use also the adjacent Room 13.

Sunset then may be re-opened for the 1963-64 school year, again as an elementary school, if the need arises, according to the plan. First and possibly second grades would be housed there at that time, and grades increased through the years until the sixth grade is reached.

Sunset School, which has a blend of Spanish mission period-European architecture and tree-shaded courts, has long been a Carmel land-mark. Started with five pupils as a one-room, subscription school in 1906, on land purchased from the family of Carmel Martin, now of Monterey, it pre-dated the district, which was formed around the school, as soon as there were seven pupils.

For many years it remained Carmel's only school, housing elementary grades, with Sunset graduates going to Monterey to high school.

Later, as space ran out and the city and its environs grew, first Woods elementary school and then River took the load of the lower grades away from Sunset, which has in recent years been primarily a junior high school.

Visitors to Carmel from all over the world know Sunset School as it is employed in another capacity however—site of the Carmel Bach Festival which has for many years been presented in Sunset Auditorium.

In other business last night, the school board:

Awarded contracts to low bidders for equipment at the new school, including one of $5,477.50 to Virco Manufacturing Company for 350 study desks; $10,925.50 to American Seating Company for 350 folding chairs, eight chair racks, 24 folding cafe tables with attached seating, 35 typing tables and 35 typing chairs; $22,750 to the Fink and Schindler Company for classroom cabinets; $8,780 to Educators Furniture and Supply Company for library furniture; $11,995 to Western Irrigation for sprinkler systems for the boys' and girls' athletic fields, and $5,106.45 to Wurzmann's Typewriter Company of Monterey for 38 typewriters.

In accordance with state law, the board also approved outright purchase of office chairs, desks, tables and bookcases from the State of California Correctional Industries for $3,517.

Adopted a 180-day school calendar for 1962-63, substantially the same as this year's, calling for a semester break January 18, and the end of school work-days for teachers on June 14.

Re-appointed Mrs. Hugh (Gyla) Smith to the district recreation commission along with Jack Miller, both of whom have terms expiring this month. The re-appointments are for two years.

Adopted additions to board rules (effective July 1, 1962) specifying that the central business office shall operate school cafeterias with outside groups such as Parent-Teacher Associations using cafeteria facilities only with office consent, and that the district will bear costs of free meals for needy pupils, but all other costs will be borne from food sale income, with prices of meals adjusted, if necessary, to make the cafeteria system self-sustaining.

The changes are in accordance with a report on cafeteria operation made recently by Superintendent Stuart Mitchell.

Five City Council Candidates, Norberg Seeks Second Term

Cormick and Audrey Walton.

Norberg says he decided to accede to persons who requested him to run again because he thinks it is of "overriding importance that provisions in the city code stating Carmel is predominately a residential community to which business and commercial interests should be subordinate needs continued protection."

Earlier yesterday, Mrs. Jean Chitwood and former councilman James Buffington, Jr., filed nomination papers for election to the council.

On January 25, Planning Commission Chairman Herbert Blanks and Carmel High School Principal Warren Edwards filed their nomination papers.

Dr. Leo Stanley, Retired San Quentin Physician

voyaging—he just returned from a trip to the Orient—lots of packing around on horseback, and lots of reading and writing at the estate near Fairfax which Dr. and Mrs. Stanley call Crest Farm.

He has a new book put together for Appleton-Century called Men At Their Best, about people he knew in the war years, when he had ample time to be an observer.

One trouble with being retired, he says, is that friends from all over imagine he's available for special missions which range from the humanitarian to the grotesque. He cited as an example the time some friends in the Immigration Service asked him to help their custodial officer escort Battling Jose, a very punch-drunk Spanish prize fighter, from the West Coast to New York for deportation.

Jose, Dr. Stanley says, was very large, very strong, and very unpredictable. He refused to fasten his seat belt, refused to go to the rest room, and bellowed when his wishes were crossed, terrorizing the other airline passengers.

Dr. Stanley came home after this shattering experience and wrote it all down, just as he had written of his stay at San Simeon as a guest of William Randolph Hearst in the old days, of the discoveries he's made on his exploratory forays by horseback around California, including the coast south of Big Sur, and all sorts of other adventures.

In short, the parts of Dr. Stanley's life that aren't already covered in books, would make more books, and we're only sorry there isn't the space to begin writing a new book on "The Old Croaker" right here.

REPUBLICAN MEN'S CLUB MEETS MONDAY

The Monterey Peninsula Republican Men's Club will meet Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the cafeteria at Carmel High School. Former State Senator Edward H. Tickle will give an informal talk on Might Is Not Enough.

F. Van Bergen

Frank Garretson Van Bergen, 74, died yesterday at a local hospital. He had been a resident of Carmel for the past 15 years.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, with Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mr. Bergen was born September 13, 1887, in Oak Park, Illinois. He retired to Carmel from Bridgeport, Connecticut, making his home near Portola and San Juan, Carmel, with his sister, Mrs. Jessie V. B. Small.

Though retired from business, he was associated for a time here with the George V. Yates investment firm. Mr. Van Bergen is a veteran of World War I.

In addition to Mrs. Small, a brother survives, John S. Van Bergen of Santa Barbara.

Inurnment will follow the funeral services at a date to be named later at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make contributions to Mr. Van Bergen's memory in the form of contributions to the New Community Hospital Building Fund, P. O. Box HH, Carmel.

tween motor scooter interests and conservationists.

Thomson J. Hudson, Monterey County supervisor from this area, is a staunch advocate of the ordinance. He should be supported.

The 400-member Carmel Citizens Committee and the Trail Conservation Committee favor the ordinance.

Motor scooters are a danger to hikers and horseback riders. They desecrate the quiet of the forest, disturb the birds and animals, are a serious erosion danger and a fire hazard.

We urge all persons interested in saving Los Padres National Forest to indicate, either by personal appearance on Monday or in an immediate letter, their support of Supervisor Hudson's stand, also that of the conservation groups.

This support will, as Secretary Udall stated, determine what kind of a world future generations may enjoy, also be one instance of how Monterey County can save now—in the 1960s—all that can be saved.
